Ten Years After's fourth studio album, Cricklewood Green, will be reissued in August. The 1970 album followed on the back of the blues-rock group's performance at Woodstock and features their only UK hit single, 'Love Like a Man' (bizarrely the A-side played an edited version of the album cut at 45RPM and the B-side was a near eight minute live version which played at 33RPM). The album has been newly mastered for the reissue and the 2CD edition includes a selection of rarities appended to CD 1 including a newly discovered 'Cricklewood Jam' instrumental demo. CD 2 includes a newly mixed version of the band's second set at the Fillmore East on 27 February 1970, which includes an 11-minute version of 'Going Home'.
